DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Giannini in view of Sato.

Regarding claim 1, Giannini discloses a portable signal activator comprising a wearable garment 10 having a body structure, a pressure-sensitive electrical activator switch 16-26 mounted to the body structure of the garment and capable of activating a signaling device 36, 38, 40, and a connection means extending from the electrical activator switch to serve as a coupling to the signaling device (see figures 1-3). Giannini does not disclose the connection means extending from the switch through a material fabric of the garment to the signaling device. Sato teaches the use of connection means extending from a switch through a material fabric of a wearable garment to a signaling device (column 2, lines 35-66). It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to include the connection means extending from the switch through a material fabric of the garment to the signaling device to the activator of Giannini as taught by Sato for the purpose of protecting the activator.

Regarding claim 7, Giannini discloses a method for permitting a person to activate a portable signaling device 36, 38, 40, conveniently, the method comprising the steps of coupling a pressure-sensitive activator switch 16-26 to the signaling device, mounting the signaling device and the switch to a wearable garment, dressing the person in the wearable garment, and positioning the switch on the garment within easy reach of the person wearing the garment (see figure 1). Giannini does not disclose connection means extending from the switch through a material fabric of a wearable garment to the signaling device. Sato teaches the use of connection means extending from a switch through a material fabric of a wearable garment to a signaling device (column 2, lines 35-66). It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to include connection means extending from the switch through a material fabric of a wearable garment to the signaling device to the method of Giannini as taught by Sato for the purpose of protecting the device.

Regarding claims 2 and 8, Giannini discloses the body structure of the garment including at least a portion formed of two layers of material (column 1, lines 5-13, fig. 4-6).

Regarding claim 3, Giannini discloses the activator switch being enclosed between the two layers (see fig. 5-6).

Regarding claims 4 and 10, Giannini discloses the two layers of material defining a moisture-resistant enclosure for the activator switch (col. 4, lines 52-67).

Regarding claims 5 and 9, Giannini discloses indicia on the outer surface of the garment (see fig. 1).

Regarding claim 6, Giannini discloses receptacles on the outer surface of the garment configured for engaging and supporting units ancillary to transmitting electronic signals (see fig. 1).

Answers to Remarks

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-10 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
